Now above lived in the country called before them. It so fell out that they were notiful; and many and various were the principle brought forward by each of them. or it laborate as as ready chroniclers, to Inform theer of the present day what was the decision of that tearned assembly, to the end that our young leaders may see what those of lorner days despited most beautiful.

When the assembly were all convened, and the proposition was juid before them-tage ware some who said the question could not be decided, for beauty was but a mera matter of epinion, and, consequently, none would be willing to give up his tastes to the arguments of any other; but there were others, and these by far the greater part, who deemed it neet to listen to the arguments of the body and so the question was laid bein complexion, slight in figure, graceful in

Most excellent signors, it see dy, that the question which your excellencies have proposed is one that admitteth of but little argament, for it must be apparent to every one of you that this world doth not contain any one thing more beautiful than all others, but find only except the works of nature. What is there passessed of more beauty than the mighty ocean, with its high waves, its expanded blue surface created waves, its expanded blue surface, detied here and there with the green isles of the ses; its coral hottomed depths; its beauful array of animated beings, from the big various of the great whale down to the tiny beauty of the little island-forming insects; lored back of the beaufor details to the reseate hue of the shore. loving tetrachon I Or, If that be not most think you of the subilmity of the crappy cliff that ever shadows the deep era, and proudle to miss mighty head, but to most the numer claims of all around it t On it you mind better loveth a colmer beauwant think you of the apprenie loveliness bloom the bodding inxurance of the youth-ful vees, while flower after flower under the rent tree of all the grove around, blooms into aristone upon the chores of the beauti-ful and gentle little rivulet? And then, too, your wisdoms will remember that all this is the work of a Godewhite all else proceedethsome so unworthy a member of this wise

Immediately as soon as he had tak seat, there can a murmus of appliance throughout the assembly; for he had expressed the opinion of numbers of its members. But hen there rose in individual of much dis-ble argument, doth speak well and advisedly, and, in the main, I entertain like views with the headles of nature, some of man's handi- to sun-shiny Italy, and gazed on her verdant levely than the prospect afforded to the vision of that individual, who, having climbed to the ber glittering beavens; viewed the penciltop of a grassy eminence, discerneth, scat-lings of her Raphael, her Thian, her Guido, and her Angelo, and noted the architectural neadow, the purious brook; and, besides beauty of her Saint Peter's and her Vatican; these, the green tops of the villagers cots, the conversed with her noble lords and fair latall steeple of the holy church, the mossy dies, (and, in sooth, they are fair,) and roam-the distant sounds of the artificer's hammer, and the merry laugh of the playful boy. I would also wish to include, amid the works the dashing gentlemen, and kissed the cheek of nature, such things as are cultivated by of the ruddy maid. Then I passed on to man's hand. A lovely flower-garden doth ontelu much that is beautiful, with its everrarying assortment of form and size and color; with its beautiful walk, bordered by lit her beauties all. And still I held me on, fecte the flowers, that scatter the delicary of their and visited the halls and the libraries of sky. populares, and compel the very gry breezes to hear their delicious burdens. But it will met he meet that I should go on to speak of all that is beautiful in this sort, nor do i profitable; for now that to what has al-rendy been described by a post of nature, I have added all that man has produced nought else remaineth to be said.

As this speaker sook seat, most of th persons in the roun were of opinion that the matter was already sattled, and needed no further discussion; but a young gentleman then rose, and begged that he might be heard, inasmuch as his view were different from any that had yet been expressed. They signified their ready willingness to listen, and

"My brethren of this body well know that I have travelled much, and visited many different lands, and I select what I am now shout to relate, as the most beautiful of all the things I have ever seen, and, moreover, I en well convinced that all others will soon fall into my way of thinking when they have heard my story. In a far distant island there wed two men who were both levers of the same fair damsel. One of them was a the lady. He was possessed of many attractions, both of body and mind, and, withal, was as true and ardent a lover as ever lived; while the other had no attractions beyond his power of mind, and was far inferior in n to the lady of his love. Now the nonth her in gentle blood, and yet the mail den's preferences were all in favor of the pensant, which, as soon as the nobleman had lady's hand by right, for her parents were in his his favor, yet he visited the obscure peasant, and, finding that he was a man of genins and worth, he soon, lw the power of his station, elevated him to the rank of a gentleman, and placed in his reach the means of soon afterwards married. And after this generous deed, the nobleman's love was still so strong towards the lady, that, being unable to conquer it, he made a will leaving to her all of his immense estates, and perished themselves fully satisfied that he had found do I deem most beautiful."

It was evident after this speaker had fin ished, that the assembly was beginning to be divided-some taking the part of the last speaker, and others persisting that they were in the sight. Afterdrim, there arose one and others, some contending for one thing, and some for another. One said there was nothing more beautiful than a maiden weeping over the couch of a deceased lover; another that an act of charity bestowed upon an enemy was loveliest. Some said that two armies wearing for the word to charge, was most sublime, others again said that a man nobly sustaining the reverses of fortune was most beautiful; others, that the natural fove of two young people was most exchanting; and others, that there was nothing perfectly beautiful beneath the skies; and so they went on until there came to be great non-fusion in the assembly, when, presently, an old white-haired man, who had set apart and carefully observed their discussion, rose, and remarked that, if it was agreeable to the young gentlemen present, he would address them. They all expressed their anxiety to listen, and the old man preceded :-

A SKETCH.

A mother was kneeling in the hush of eve ning, at the couch of two infants, whose rosy arms were twined in a mutual embrace. slumber, soft as the moonlight that fell thro' the lattice over them, like a silvery veil, lay on their lips—the soft bright corls that clus ered on their pillow were slightly stirred by their gentle and healthy breathings, and that mile, which beams from the pure depths of the fresh glad spirit, yet rested on their red ips: The mother looked upon their exceedng beauty with a momentary pride-and nen, as she continued to gaze on the lovely slumberers, her dark eye deepened with an ntense and unutterable fondness, and a cold shuddering fear came over her, lest those ouds of life, so fair, so glowing, might be ouched with sudden decay, and gather back n their brightness, to the dust. And she lifted ber voice in prayer, solemnly, passionately, earnestly, that the Giver of Life would still spare to her those blossoms of love, over whom her soul thus yearned.

And as the low-breathed accents rose on the still air, a deepened thought came over this vouthful body, and yet, when I tell you her, and her spirit went out with her loved and pure ones, into the strange wild paths of tife, and a strong borrer chilled her frame as she beheld mildew and blight settling on the been spent in seeking to answer it aright, I fair and lovely of the earth, and high and ich bearts southed with desolating and guilfy passions. And the prayer she was breathig grew yet more fervent, even to agony that He who was the fountain of all purity, would preserve these whom He had given thing lovely, and if I have found it, I have her in their perfect innecence, permitting neither shame nor crime, nor folly, to cast a

"Behold!" said Death, as he touched the fair forms, and the beauty of life gave place to a bolier and yet deeper loveliness, 'behold the smile of innocence is forever sealed. They will awake where there is neither blight nor tempest.' And the benign power, whom we call the Speiler, bore away the now perfected blossoms of immortality to the far-off

Erom the Southern Weekly Post. THE LOST FOUND.

The facts which follow are furnished us by a reliable correspondent, and contain sufficient of the " raw material " for a good novel. We are assured by the narrator that the statements are literally correct :

Some sixteen years since, a young gentle man in New York city contrived for awhile to pay his addresses to a beautiful girl there the daughter of a worthy but obstinate Pear street merchant, who was opposed to the young man's visiting his daughter. He per sisted in his endeavors to win the young lady, and at last was forbidden to enter the

Still, the lovers contrived to meet occa sionally afterwards; and at the expiration of some six months, matters having been previously so arranged, the girl consented to marry the youth who loved her, and for whom at any time he would have perilled his life, so deeply rooted was his affection for her. He did not seek her fortune, for he was in the enjoyment of a handsome salary as principal book keeper in an extensive job bing-house, and his prospects, pecuniarily, were very fair. But the parents were obdurate, and he was driven from the house

As we have hinted, at the end of half twelve-month, they agreed to be married and all the requisite arrangements were made, the evening was fixed upon-even the chaplain had been engaged-but, on the morning of the day proposed secretly for the nuptials, the whole plan was discovered, and the match was broken off, peremptorially, by the absolute authority of the parents.

Time passed on. The daughter was sent to a distant part of the country for a while; and the young man, disappointed and dis-beartened, left New York for the west.

Meantime, a person to suit the taste of the parents presented himself-a man of considerable means, but old enough to be the voting girl's father; and a match was ar- of the heart. Three years subsequently, the young man found himself in New England, where he settled, and took a wife also, finding it not good to dwell alone; and some dozen years or so passed away, with their thousand-andone changes of place or circumstances, and of fortune. From the time of their separation, the original lovers had never met. The young man became the father of 3

One day last month he was returning home in the afternoon, and upon entering the cars, he found them all full. He sought a seat. and found one by a lady about thirty years of age, beside whom he sat down, and the cars soon moved out of the depot. As they emerged into the light, he suddenly turned to the lady and exclaimed,

" Mad-am! Emma! Is this you! He didn't know exactly what he said, but t was a fact that he- was on the seat with the girl to whom he was once engaged to be married, whom he had really loved, and whom he had never seen from the day of their cruel separation.

A mutual explanation quickly succeeded Our widowed friend ascertained that his former intended was on her way to the North upon a visit to her friends. That she had been married nearly sleven years, had but one child living, and her husband had been dead over two years. He pointed to his pretty cottage as the care passed on, but did not leave the train. He proceeded forward, renewed his acaugintance, found the lady her own mistress proposed to her again, for he believed her as lovely as ever, and won her, sure, this time! And we record the fact with no orninary degree of pleasure, that within three weeks the lovers were actually united together in marriage, in the city of Boston.

FATAL USE OF CHLOROFORM.

The Boston Traveller contains a long doc ment from Dr. J. C. Warren, in relation to a death by chloroform, accidentally adminis tered at the Massachusetts General Hospital. It appears that chloric or sulphuric ether is used in the hospital, in preference to chloroform. Three operations were performed on Saturday, Oct. 30. The first was for a contracted hand, and, the patient was ethe ised with what was supposed to be cloric ether. The operation was performed, and the patient escaped without any other incom venience than a slight soreness of the throat

The second case was for a tumor on the the patient came very near dving, but was single shilling.

saved. The third case, which proved fatal. was that of a young man about twenty years old, a native of Ireland, who had his arm entangled in the machinery of a bark mill about five days before. He refused to have it amputated until mortification had taken place. On Saturday the operation was performed. Etherization was carefully made, and the operation was accomplished in about two minutes. Just as it was finished, it was perceived that his pulse was rapidly failing. Dr. Warren continues : "Word was given to suspend the dressing, nd dash water on his face, which was immediately done. Notwithstanding this, the respiration and pulse went on diminishing. and soon ceased. He was to all appearance dead, Artificial respiration was directly produced by moving the ribs; the limbs were rubbed, ammonia was momentarily appiled to the nostrils and mouth, and when these things failed, ammonia was introduced into the mouth, as in other cases. Soon after this, to our great joy, a slight respiration followed, and the efforts being continued, his respiration improved, though he breathed with difficulty, owing to the quantity of mucus in the lungs. The Nails in the Post.

There was once a farmer who had a son amed John, a boy very apt to be thoughtless, and careless as to doing what he was told to do. One day his father said to him-

"John, you are so careless and forgetful that every time you do wrong I shall drive a nail into this post, to remind you how often you are naughty; and every time you do right I will-draw one out."

Why is it that so for a long time, till at length it came to the stars who hold their festivals around the the last nail. His father then called him,

"Look, John, here is the very last nail, and now I'm going to draw this; are you. not glad ?" John looked at the post, and then, instead of expressing joy, as his father expected, burst into tears. "Why," said his father, " what is the mat-

the nails are all gone." "Yes," sobbed John, "the nails are gone but the scars are there yet."

So it is, dear children, with your faults, and your bad habits; you may overcome them; you may, by degrees cure them, but the scars remain.

Now take my advice, and whenever you

TIE FATHER AT HOME.

In most of the families in this country, the father is absent the greater part of the day, engaged in physical labor. To gather his children around him, upon entering his home, and converse with them about their sports, their occupations, their studies, and heir duties, inculcating occasionally some moral and religious truth in what he says, would be by change of occupation, actually a relief to him and a pleasure to them. Cannot any father see, how by such a course, he would blind his children to their home, and make it a delightful place to them, the sweetest spot on earth? Let him pursue this course, and no coercive measures will be necessary to keep his children from the streets in the evening, the place where alnost every boy who is rained, may date the commencement of his downfall.

Besides all this, let him calculate, if he can, the amount of relief this would afford his companion, the mother of his children, who in addition to the ordinary, ever-recurring, monotonus duties of the day, has had the care and responsibility, not only of the personal safety of the children, but also of their moral health and purity; duties which, alone frain out the mucus from his lungs, and by in their wearing and distracting nature. would more than balance all his labors.

How much of heart must that husband have, who, upon entering his house, flies immediately to his newspaper, or to his book. entirely forgetful of the claims his wife and children have upon his sympathy, his smiles, questions proposed to him until the last mo. full of hope, awaited his coming, any more interested in his family.

But even admitting that a mother does not need the aid of the father as a relief to her, in the general management and care of the children—that she has assistance in the family, this does not excuse him. The Bible imposes responsibilities upon him, which no father holding the happiness of his children in proper estimation, will wish to be consider the deprivation a calamity. Such a father knows that there are in every child. inherent and latent powers, which can be, some effusion of venous blood, probably pro- the severe and masculine capabilities of the mind.

It is in a father's power to inspire his children in early life, especially if he keeps the word of God in his hands as he proceeds, with a meral heroism, which will make them proof against all the seductive influences of immortality and vice, by which they may be surrounded; unmoved-under the dignifying consciousness of self-rectitude--

A BEAUTIFUL IDEA. - I cannot believe that the earth is man's abiding place. It cannot be that our life is east up by the ocean of eternity, to float for a moment upon its waves and sink to nothingness. Else why is it that the glorious aspirations which leap At last John saw the post quite covered like angels from the temple of our hearts, come over us with a beauty that is not of midnight throne, are set above the grasp of limited faculties, forever mocking us with their unapproaching glory? This Congressisnal District now consists of the Districts of York, Chester, Fairfield, Richland, Kershaw, and Sumter. The next election will be ordered in February next. We announce this week the names of W. W. Borce, Esq., of Fairfield, and Hon. F. J. Mosse, of Sumter, as Candidates. There are: we understand two other gentlemen spoken of, Jos. A. BLACK, and JAMES O'HANLON, both of Columbia:

[FOR THE PALMETTO STANDARD.]

Mr. Editor: The Legislature at its present ssion having arranged the Congressional Districts of the State according to the late census, and the elections being close at hand, it becomes necessary for the voters of the 1st Congression al District composed of the Districts of York. Chester, Fairfield, Richland, Kershaw and Sumter, to look around for a suitable person to represent that District in the National Legislature. The qualifications necessary for so important, and at this time so peculiarly responsible an office, are, by no means so common, as may be supposed. Brilliant talents and high attainmonts, the absolutely essential, are far from being the only qualities necessary to constitute an efficient representative in the councils of the Nation. Under the peculiar relations existing at this time between the general government and South Carolina, we require in a representative in Congress, not only talents of the first order and patriotism of the purest quality, but that tact and skill in dealing with men, which can only be acquired by considerable knowledge of human nature, good common sense, and great experience. United to these, we should also require, a devotion to the interests and honor of South Carolina, which would be paramount to all considerations of merely personal interests or ambition. In other words, we want a man insensible to Federal bonors or federal gold. when the interests or honor of the South are involved: with sufficient shrewdness to see danger in whatever specious shapes it may disguise itself; sufficient tact and talent to know how to combat it most successfully in the Halls of Congress, and if defeated there, with sufficient courage to be willing if necessary to meet it elsewhere.

Such a man we believe the people of the Con ression District will find in the Hon. JOSEPH A. Brack, of Columbia. Residing in a Districe, central in its location, and one which we believe has not lately been honored with a member of Congress, we regard his talents, his honesty, is well known tact and shrewdness, as well as his locality in the Congressional District, as giving him qualifications and claims superior to ose of any other gentleman whose name we various other considerations, we have no hesitation in expressing the belief that he will receive the cordial and hearty support of the back country, and particularly that of Porter's Self-Loading Gun.—The editor of the Boston Transcript has been favored with a sight of the celebrated gun, patented for 1851, by Col. Parry W. "It is a light and beautiful gun, and may be discharged as a revolver twenty-seven times in

"It is a light and beautiful gun, and may be discharged as a revolver twenty-seven times in a minute, while it is susceptible of being loaded and fixed forty times in a minute. In conformity with a resolution of the General Assembly of Tennessee, the Governor of that State has ordered a thousand of these guns. We learn ten thousand are now being manufactured by George P. Foster and Co., of Taunton, Mass. They will undoubtedly be introduced into the army of the United States, as forty men armed with this gun would be a match for four hundred with the old fashioned musket. This remarkable invention cannot fail to exoite public admiration and curiosity.

Early in September, the Typhoid Fever made its appearance in the vicinity of the College, but none of the Students were affected with it until the 5th of October. First and last, about 20 were unwell, but only 8 had the fever fully developed; and of this number two died.

Several of the Sudents, who left soon after the appearance of Fever, and others who had retired temporarily, befere we had any affliction, were taken sick at home, and of this number It was reported that 25 or 30 Students had the fever at one time, and that none in Mol'ege were well. The truth is, we had at no time exceeding two cases together of the fever; tho as many as five or six of the Students may have been unwell at the same time. Numbers loft in perfect health, and some have stayed, who have been unwell at the same time. Numbers left in perfect health, and some have sayed, who have continued well all the time.

Many Parents, who come for their daughters, slleged that they would have remained at home if they had known facts in the case, but as they had come, and the girls were anxious to see home, they would take them.

Some disliked the exaction of payment to the end of the session, but in the absence of any thing alarming, the Trustees considered this important to their own protection; for all must see how ruinously it would operate against the Institution, thus uncerimoniously to step its exercises and close its doors.

The Patrons were officially notified of the true state of things, but from various rumors, fabricated by the vicious and circulated by the credulous, they took the alarm and determined to see for themselves. In view of the foregoing facts and statements, the Trustees, at meeting in October last, passed, unanimously, the following resolution, viz.

The lawyer is a telescope to expose the depravity of human nature. His ear is stunned with the confessions of shocking crimes. The turpitude of human mind, the ebulition of guilty passion, the griping usury of the miser, deep painped knavery, and the sneaking pusillanimity of the poltroon, fur-nish him employment and bread. Crime is sifted in all its loathsome details, and sound-ed to its darkest depths of infamy. He sees human nature in its worst phase. He sees the kaman heart denuded of all the flimsy disguises by which its workings are hid from the world, blackened with crime, scorched with passion, and dwarfed by sellishness until he becomes to regard virtue as an emp ty name to cozen fools with, and friendship but the jargen of auprincipled knaves. A REMARKABLE DOG FIGHT.

Frog Town in a Grand Furore,

BY FALCONBRIDGE.

Who ever saw a dog fight without curios ity to see it out? Go in, put in a word, get excited, and not unfrequently flight also We have no distinct recollection of having ever seen a serious, regular pitched hattle between two dogs, without a general fight mong the by-standers, or a scrimmage between the owners of the animals, at least,

But the most remarkable dog fight on munity in one general and indiscriminate melee-distraction of the town, its downfull and ruin !

A fanciful genius, named Joe Tucker, a nan about town-a lounger-without visible neans of support; a do nothing, loafing, elgar smoking, good-natured sort of fellow, owned a yellow dog; a slick, intelligent and rather pretty beast, always at Joe's heels. and known as well as his master, and liked far more, by the Frog towners. One day, Jos and his dog were passing Burion's grocery store, when a great piebald ugly-looking dog standing along-side of a -knocked him heels over head, and so hand sticks upon the combafants indisc frightened Bob Carter's wife, who was passand her old sun bonnet flopping scared the of the term, than all other classes? office, and seeking happiness on Mt. purple. Andrew Jackson thought it no disgrace to be a farmer, and the American Gumbo, that she dropped a stew pan of hot the devils were all in Frogtown! A heavy nasses decided that it should be no ground boiling oysters into the lap instead of the thunder storm, finally, put an end to the dish, of a customer, who sat waiting for the savory concection, by a table in the corner.

Mrs. Gumbo rushed to the child-the cusomer for the door! Mrs. Gumbo screamed, fession ended As I am a farmer, I shall the child screetched and the customer vell-

'O, oh, oh-h-h-h, my poor child!' cried

Mrs. Gumbo. 'Eh, eh, e-e-e!' screamed the child. O, murder! O, by everlasting sin! I'm calded to all eternity ! Mur-der ! roared the oustomer.

The horse, a part of the wagon, and some ood, were on their mad career. The owner of the strange deg came out of the store just in time to see Joe Tucker seize a rock to demolish said dog; and not waiting to see Jos highly useful to one who tills the ground, 'let drive,' gave him such a pop in the back We all know that some manures cause both of the ear, that poor Joe fell forty yards up corn and cotton to "fire" and to fail in sea- the street, and striking the foot of a long ladsons of drought; yet how few can give a ra- der, upon which Jim Ederberry was perched tional explanation of this phenomenon, not -paint pot in hand-some thirty feet from recommending people to grasp shadows, or terra firms, brought ladder, Jim and paint pot aprawling to the ground; crippling poo Jim for life, and sprinkling the blue paint copiously over the broadcloths, satinets and caligoes of Abraham Miller, a formal and even tempered quaker, who ran out to the ment; and to lay aside the customs of past door, just as the two dogs had fairly gone times, as things that have been superceded at it-hip and thigh nip and catch. A glance at matters seemed to convince Abra-Secondly, as matters now stand, every ham of the true state of the case; and in an unusually elevated voice Abraham called out 'Joseph Tucker, thy dog's fighting ?'

'Let them fight it out,' yelled the pugna ous owner of the strange dog. Let 'en fight it out; I'll bet a load of wood, my dog an eat any dog in the town, and I can eat the owner?"

We have said Abraham Miller was a mild nan; quakers are proverbially so. But the ganntlet thrown down by the burly strange rom the country, stirred the gall of Abra ham, and he rushed into his store. From unders of others. But do we manifest any the back yard; having slipped his collar desire to gain information, to abandon our Abraham brought forth a brindle cur; long, strong, and all-powerful.

'Friend,' said the excited quaker, 'thy dog shall be well beatten, I promise theo! Hike! seize upon him. Turk; here my boy! and the dog went at it.

Bob Carter, the smith, coming up in time to hear the stranger's defiance to the town and bent on a fight with some body, for the insult and damage to his wife, clamped the collar of the stranger, and by a series of ten pound tens upon the face and back and sides of his bully antagonist, with his natural sledge hammers, Bob stirred up the strength and ire of the bolly stranger to the top of his compass, and they made the sparks fly

Joe Tucker's dog, reinforced by that of Abraham Miller's, took fresh courage, and petween the two, the strange dog was being cruelly put to his trumps! Deacon Pugh, one of the most sedate, and substantial and pious men in Frog town, came up, and indeed him, marched up to the dogs, exclaiming as

" Fie, fie, for shame : disgraceful-you men zens of Frogtown, will you stand by and, Dont't thee, don't thee strike my dog, Deacon Pugh!' cried Abraham Miller, advancing upon the deacon, who was about to out right and left among the dogs with his wled the deacon. Thee hast provoked my evil passions Deacon Pugh,' shouted the stalwart quaker and I will chastise thee !" And into the descon's wool went the qua ker. The deacon, nothing loth, entered into scord, perhaps, came off at Frog town, on the spirit of the thing; and we leave them the frontiers of Maine, some years ago. It thus 'hip and tuck,' to look to the stranger beat all plug masses' of the kind we have and Bob Carter, who fit and fought, fought ever heard of; it engrossed the entire com- and fit, until Squire Catchen and the town constable came up; and in their attempt to preserve the peace and arrest the offenders, the squire was thrust through the window of a neighbortng watch-maker, doing a heap of damage, while Lawyer Hooker, in attempt ing to aid the constable was hit, in a mistake by the furious blacksmith, in the short ribs and went reeling down Gumbo's celler, with frightful velocity. The friends and fellow churchmen of Deacon Pugh, took sides against the quaker antagonist, and the shop boys of Abraham, seeing their employer thus beset, came to the rescue, while a brace of stray Irishmen-full of valour and whiskey, wood wagon, pounced on Joe Tucker's dog believing it to be "free fight," tried there ately; so that in less than one hour, the quiet ing towards her husband's blacksmith shop, and happy borough of Progtown was shaken with his dinner, that she stumbled back'ards, from its propriety, by one grand, sublimely warrior, or invested with the Presidential Gumbo's children on the head, killed it, for that a quiet looker on, if there had been any row; the dogs were all more or less killed, a child severely wounded, a man scalded, wagon broken, the horse ran himself to TRAVELERS AND BOARDERS. death, his owner was beaten awfully by Bob Carter, whose wife and the wives of many others were dangerously scared; the painter was crippled, dry goods ruined, a quaker, and deacon, two Irishmen, Lawyer Hooker Squire Catchem, and fifty others shamefully whipped! AS A DYSPEPSIA CURER,

Dr. HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN has produced the most MARVELLOUS EFFECTS, in caring cases of MARLITY, EMACIATION, NEWYOUS DECLINE, and DYSPEPTIC CONSTRUCTION. This impossible to give the details of cases in the limits of this advertisement; but authientificated cartificates have been given of more than TWG: HUNDRED REMARKABLE CURES in Philadelphia, New York and Buston alone. These ware nearly all desperate cases, and the cures were not only rapid and wonderful, but permanent.

It is a great NEHVOUS ANTIDOTE, and particularly useful for tendency to Bilious disorder, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, or bailty trouted Fever and Ague, and the evil effects of Quintos. Misroury, and other drugs upon the Digestive Organs after a long sickness. Also, for excessin enting and the tor free use of ardent spirits. It almost reconciles MEALIS with INTEMPLEANCE.

Dr. HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN is prepared in Powder and in Fluid form—and in Preseription vials for the use of Physiciaus.

PRIVATE CIRCULARS for the use of Physicians may be obtained of Dr. Houghton or his Agents, duscribing the whole process of preparation, and giving the authorities upon which the claims of this new temedy are hased. The following certificate of the board of Trustees is subjoined:

We, the undersigned, Trustees of Ebenezer Male Academy, would respectfully state, that, Gen? Alston has had charge of our Academy for the last two years. It is needless for us to remark that he is a gentleman of fine talonts, liberal education and finished style of Elocution, but it is proper, for us to say, that he devotes all his time, and has dedicated all his energies to Touchiag. We have attended the examinations of his School, have beard his scholars declaim, and would unhesitatingly say, that he successe has fully met our high expectations—he appears to understand fully the Philosophy of his Profession. We would, therefore, cordially recommend his School to the liberal support of a generous and discarring public.

Early in September, the Typhoid Fever made its appearance in the vicinity of the College, but none of the Students were affected with it until the 5th of Ostober. First and last, about 20 were unwell, but only 8 had the fever fully developed; and of this number two died.

the great power and ease with which this Punp works have given it a decided preference over any thing of the kind now in use in the United States; and in all places where it has een introduced, it is superseding the old me hod of raising water.

The advantages are:

1st. The little difficulty in getting at the valves for repair. All that is required to repair them is a knife, screw-driver and leather. 2d. It keeps a constant stream in mo 3d. Water may be drawn from cisterns, wells, springs, &c., and forced to any height.

4th. It may be used in all cases for a Fire Engine, as the smallest Pump will throw water to the top of a three story building 5th. The price is less than that of any other

Pump that will perform the same amount of work.

Sib. The arrangement of the whole is so simple that it is less liable to get out of order and will keep in repair longer than any other Pump. It is better calculated for situations where mechanical skill is not readily.

PEPSIN is the chief element, or Great Elgesting Principle of the Gastric Julee—the soutent of Right Proon, the Pursysina, Persuavias, and stimulation Agent of the Stomach and intention. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, thus forming an ARTIFICIAL DIGESTIVE FLUID, precisely like the natural Gastric Julee in its Chemical powers, and farmishing a COMPLETE and PERFECT SUBSTITUTE for it. By the aid of this preparation, the pains and evils of INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA are removed, just as they would be by a healthy Stomach. It is doing wonders for DYSPEPTIC CONSUMPTION, supposed to be on the rayge of the grame. The Scientific Evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree CURIOUS and REMARKABLE.
